

BJÖRN BORG IS LOOKING FOR THE FITTEST MAGENTO BACK END DEVELOPER ON EARTH

There's something about active people that we at Björn Borg love. There's a certain vibe to them. There's a flair. An ambition to always look for new ways, new progress. That's why we support active people – not only through our underwear and sports clothing, but also through our company culture. We want our employees to live the brand, to always feel active and attractive and be game changers by heart. We help each other out by challenging one another to always be on our toes, both mentally and physically. So if you are that super fit person, you might also fit super well into our group.

The role

HSPU, EMOM, AMRAP, do you know this coded language? Cool. If not, you can always learn.

Björn Borg is looking for a Magento Back End developer to our e-com team at the company head quarters in Stockholm, Sweden. You will be a part of building the best online shopping experience ever known to humanity. Pushing boundaries is your thing. Ours too.

You have worked with back end development for Magento Enterprise Edition. It's crucial. More important is that you have experience in magento 2.0,2.1. Cause that's where we're heading.

PHP, PHP 7, MySQL, HTML is obviously something you know as well as the legend Björn Borg himself knew his way around the tennis court. If you have experienced in front end development like ajax, various javascript libraries, css that's a bonus.

Your documented experience:

1-3 years web development with a minimum of 1 years LAMP experience. If you are certified Magento developer, nice!

2-3 year working with development for Magneto Enterprise

Experience in working with SVN/GIT

Performs 20 burpees under the minute

A strong understanding e-commerce and Magento development best practices

Building integration with/for third party APIs

Building modules for magneto Enterprise

Skills in optimizing sites for kick ass performance.

You are:

A person who always strive to make a difference.

A person who knows where you are heading.

A person who innovates.

A person who loves a fast pace.

A person who really, really loves to win.

The role is full time, based in our global headoffice in Stockholm.

Are you the one we are looking for? Send your application containing your CV and a cover letter no later than January 23rd to ansokan@bjornborg.com For more information - visit our website www.bjornborg.com.